Loomis, Essex and Meacham (Jour. Amer. Chem. Soc. 39, 1133 (1917) and Ming Chow (ibid. 42,488 (1920), have also measured cells of the same type containing hydrochloric acid and potassium chloride, but in their measurements the total chlorine ion concentration was kept constant. In the present investigation accurate measurements of the same types of cells have been made, employing barium, strontium and calcium chlorides in 0.1 M hydrochloric acid. The exact calculation of the individual activity coefficients of the ions in concentrated solutions is a problem accompanied with great difficulties owing to liquid junction potentials which cannot be accurately calculated. At the present time, the only other method of value, besides calculations which are inexact. is to...

Reviews

This pdf is worth buying. It is actually written in basic words and not confusing. It has been printed in a remarkably basic way in fact it is merely following. I finished reading this publication through which really altered me, affect the way I really believe.
