THE POISED CENTURY: ON LIVING TODAY AS IF TOMORROW MATTERED (PAPERBACK)

Createspace, United States, 2011. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 226 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.In The Poised Century, David A. Robinson shows us what a century on the brink looks like and what each of us can do about it. From oil depletion and climate change to growing inequity and mounting debt he presents persuasive reasons why each of us must live today as if tomorrow mattered. Advocating a future that grows from the sum of our own conscious choices and informed citizen action, he points to a common abundance we can all live with, one that brings well-being to all Americans. Robinson gives us tools for creating a future that will not only require, but demand, our attention and presents an optimistic, if not easy, way to secure our collective life. Focusing on the United States in particular, he invites and challenges his readers to find a way of living and consuming that does not diminish either the planet or its people. Filled with practical remedies, The Poised Century offers abundance over inequity and hope over despair. Kirkus Review A wide-ranging appeal for a saner way of living. With a background that spans science, philosophy and humanitarian service, Robinson has the ability to grasp some of the country's most pressing problems, filter them through observant, objective eyes and make recommendations for ways to set things right. Robinson focuses on America's materialism as a root cause of malaise, which is hardly new territory, but he expands the palette to include a discussion of our changing workplace, the growth and importance of nonprofits (the third sector), our consumptive attitude toward energy and the weakness of political leaders who focus more on raising money for re-election than on serving their constituents....
