FEDERAL FACILITIES: AGENCIES SLOW TO DEFINE THE SCOPE AND COST OF HAZARDOUS WASTE SITE CLEANUPS: RCED-94-73 (PAPERBACK)

Bibliogov, United States, 2013. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 246 x 189 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO determined the status of federal efforts to identify federal facilities requiring hazardous waste cleanup under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA). GAO found that: (1) the Departments of Defense (DOD) and Energy (DOE) and other agencies have mostly completed their efforts to identify hazardous waste sites requiring cleanup and have reported candidate facilities to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA); (2) some Department of Agriculture (USDA) units have nearly completed their inventories, but the Forest Service, some Department of the Interior agencies, the Coast Guard, and the Federal Aviation Administration are continuing to inventory their facilities; (3) Interior and USDA cited the size of their landholdings, resource limitations, and liability issues as reasons why they have not completed site inventories; (4) the latest DOD estimate of long-term cleanup costs totalled $24.5 billion; (5) DOE has estimated that its cleanup costs will total at least $54 billion, and it is now required to update its total cleanup cost estimate annually; (6) USDA and Department of Transportation agencies have also made estimates; (7) Interior and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have not estimated their cleanup costs; (8) an underlying cause of the slow progress in site inventories and cost estimates is the absence of statutory requirements for inventories and cost estimates, and the lack of EPA oversight over agency activities; and (9) securities laws require private companies to disclose and estimate the cost of their environmental liabilities.
